Security footage of 096; face blurred SCP-096[1]The Guy,[11]Angered when face is seen[1]Extreme durability[1]Pursues target until the target is dead[1]It must have lost all its organs, all its blood, but it didn't acknowledge any of it. Its bone structure wasn't hurt at all, though. It kept tearing my squad apart.Captain's testimonial regarding Retrieval Incident #096-1-A, Entry Page: 096SCP-096, also known as "The Shy Guy", is a humanoid creature that becomes extremely hostile when any part of their face is seen. Biography/Early eventsAs some point, SCP-096 was captured by the SCP Foundation and placed under the supervision of Dr. Dan Daniels. 096 is classified as Euclid, due to its relative docility when not upset, 096's cell is located in Site-19, but occasionally is transferred to other sites when needed for testing or containment repairs. Due to 096 killing anyone who ever saw his face, a test was performed in the Tonga Trench where D-9031, a former tattoo artist, was ordered to draw his face. Though successfully done, 096 eventually reached his position, killed the Class D, then ate him. This artist's impression has been used ever since for a safe view of what 096 has guarded so much. Retrieval Incident #096-1-A096 once breached containment and fled into a cold environment, forcing MTF Zulu-9 to find and capture it. Due to a lack of communication and bad luck, Zulu-9-A was annihilated by 096 after it turned around while placing a bag on its head. The only survivor was Captain , who was rescued by Zulu-9-B, who also recaptured 096 without incident, soon retired and was later interviewed by Dr. Dan, where he recounted the events leading up to his team's massacre.Incident 096-1-A Picture secured by MTF-Tau. SCP-096 circled in yellow, blocked out.[1] Dr. Dan Daniels and his assistant Dr. Oleksi attempted to petition to reclassify SCP-096 as a Keter and receive authorization to terminate it, in which both were denied. Upon hearing of this, Dan and Oleksi insisted to put together a containment breach to prove how dangerous 096 is to humanity. This was accomplished by planting a hiking photo, with 096's face in the background, into a random civilian's home. The two also designed SCRAMBLE eyewear that were originally intended to blot out 096's face before the human eye registered its face; however, they sabotaged the design so that the brain recognized 096's face despite the eye not registering it.The civilian eventually noticed the photograph, prompting its containment breach and the subsequent death of most of the employees in its lab due to both nerve gas and the few that 096 got to. MTF Tau-1 was tasked with pursuing 096, being issued the sabotaged SCRAMBLE eyewear so that they could deal with 096 more effectively. It eventually escaped into the desert and then onto the I-40, killing several travelers as it advanced on its target. Though the Foundation secured the first three towns its route went onto and little incident, the fourth town where the 096-1 was had an issue: the SCRAMBLE devices didn't work. 096 proceeded to tear through the MTF Tau-1 operators that thought their equipment was successfully obscuring his face, eventually reaching 096-1 and killing him.096 was recaptured by Chief Master Sergeant after it massacred a family inside their minivan, including an infant; this resulted in his eventual suicide. The incident was later reviewed by the O5 Council, who found many holes in Dr. Oleksi and Dr. Dan Daniels's interviews post-incident. This resulted in Oleksi's death and Dan being tasked to terminate 096, knowing that he would die soon after it was done.Encounter with 682As part of Dr. Dan Daniels's pursuit to exterminate 096, he organized for a joint test involving SCP-682 and 096. It was placed in 682's cell inside a containment tank, personnel quickly leaving and opening the tank. Little is known of the battle, but it is known that it resulted in twenty-seven hours of screaming, as well as a severely wounded 096 huddling in the corner. 682 was missing 85% of its body mass, and both SCPs were reconcainted with little incident. Any further attempts to recreate the encounter simply resulted in 096 turning away, jumping in place while screaming and clawing at its own face.[2]Test with 978SCP-096 was captured with SCP-978 while its back was facing the photographer. When the photo was printed out, it simply showed 096's empty cell.[3]Alternate realitiesBroken Masquerade A Lesson in PowerSCP-5000 Images of 096 uploaded to social media. In Universe-5000, during the SCP Foundation's pursuit to exterminate humanity in the war against humanity, uncensored images of 096 were circulated across social media. Before the images were removed, death tolls reached the hundreds. It presumably continued to kill various 096-1's until the timeline rose by Pietro Wilson.[4]Attributes096, under most conditions, tends to be extremely docile and harmless, simply pacing across its room. However, whenever anyone witnesses any aspect of its face, be it via direct contact, photograph, or camera footage, 096 will become extremely upset and begin screaming and crying, before chasing down, killing, and eating the person who witnessed his face (referred to normally as 096-1); his jaw can open up to four times the norm of an average human, allowing him to quickly consume anyone.[5-11] However, 096's angerecitate is not triggered by drawings or artistic renderings, allowing some of his glimpses to what his face looks like.[5][6] One of the few entities to have survived witnessing 096's face is SCP-682, despite becoming severely damaged in a fight they engaged in for over a day. 096 also refuses to engage with 682 as well, turning away from him while jumping in place and screaming and clawing his face.[2]096 is highly durable, absorbing small arms fire, AT-4 EDT launcher blasts, and several hundred rounds from a GAU-19. Little to no issues with maneuverability. 096's bone structure is virtually indestructible by human means, allowing him to successfully chase down and kill 096-1 even while suffering from high amounts of damage. Even while experiencing extreme blood loss and organ destruction, 096 is still able to move as well he did undamaged. It is also unaffected by the cold, despite its nude, frail appearance.[11]096 also was able to resist 682's attacks, tearing away more than 85% of body mass from 682.[2]In addition, 096 has regenerative properties, allowing it to regenerate from the most grievous wounds. It also possesses the ability to claw through most materials and containers, including steel.[6] 096 can run at incredible speeds, with the ability to reach targets from hundreds of miles away quickly. 096 also lacks the need for oxygen, as proven in his hunt for D-9031 deep in the Tonga Trench; this incident also proved that 096 could easily reach sea depths of up to 3,292 meters (10,800 feet), absorbing immense amounts of water pressure as he hunted for 096-1.[5]Containment procedures096 is currently contained in a 5x5x5 airtight cubed cell made of steel; the walls must be checked for any weaknesses weekly. Surveillance or optical tools of any kind are forbidden within its cell. To compensate for this, pressure plates and laser detectors are used to detect its presence. Photos, videos, or any piece of media containing 096 must be approved by Dr. Dan Daniels and 05-Gallery/Former image of 4 Pixels.[11][KillsThis list chronicles the beings that were killed by 096. Item #: SCP-096Object Class: EuclidSpecial Containment Procedures: SCP-096 is to be contained in its cell, a 5 m x 5 m x 5 m airtight steel cube, at all times. Weekly checks for any cracks or holes are mandatory. There are to be absolutely no video surveillance or optical forms of any kind inside SCP-096's cell. Security personnel will use pre-installed pressure sensors and laser detectors to ensure SCP-096's presence inside the cell.Any and all photos, video, or recordings of SCP-096's likeness are strictly forbidden without approval from Dr. and O5-.Description: SCP-096 is a humanoid creature measuring approximately 2.38 meters in height. Subject shows very little muscle mass, with preliminary analysis of body mass suggesting mild malnutrition. Arms are grossly out of proportion with the rest of the subject's body, with an approximate length of 1.5 meters each. Skin is mostly devoid of pigmentation, with no sign of any body hair.SCP-096's jaw can open to four (4) times the norm of an average human. Other facial features remain similar to an average human, with the exception of the eyes, which are also devoid of pigmentation. It is not yet known whether SCP-096 is blind or not. It shows no signs of any higher brain functions, and is not considered to be sapient.SCP-096 is normally extremely docile, with pressure sensors inside its cell indicating it spends most of the day pacing by the eastern wall. However, when someone views SCP-096's face, whether it be directly, via video recording, or even a photograph, it will enter a stage of considerable emotional distress. SCP-096 will cover its face with its hands and begin screaming, crying, and babbling incoherently. Approximately one (1) to two (2) minutes after the first viewing, SCP-096 will begin running to the person who viewed its face (who will from this point on be referred to as SCP-096-1).Documented speeds have varied from thirty-five (35) km/h to km/h, and seems to depend on distance from SCP-096-1. At this point, no known material or method can impede SCP-096's progress. The actual position of SCP-096-1 does not seem to affect SCP-096's response; it seems to have an innate sense of SCP-096-1's location. Note: This reaction does not occur when viewing artistic depictions (see Document 096-1).Upon arriving at SCP-096-1's location, SCP-096 will proceed to kill and [DATA EXPUNGED] SCP-096-1. 100% of cases have left no traces of SCP-096-1. SCP-096 will then sit down for several minutes before regaining its composure and becoming docile once again. It will then attempt to make its way back to its natural habitat, [DATA REDACTED]Due to the possibility of a mass chain reaction, including breach of Foundation secrecy and large civilian loss of life, retrieval of subject should be considered Alpha priority.Dr. has also petitioned for immediate termination of SCP-096 (see Interview 096-1). Order is awaiting approval. Termination order has been approved, and is to be carried out by Dr. on [DATA REDACTED]. See incident 096-1-A. Audio log from Interview 096-1.3:[Interviewer: Dr. Interviewed: Captain (Ret.) , former commander of retrieval team Zulu 9-ARetrieval Incident #096-1-A] Time, Research Area |Capt. : It always sucks ass to get Initial Retrieval duty. You have no idea what the damn thing is capable of besides what jacked up information the field techies can scrape up, and you're lucky if they even tell you the whole story. They told us to "bag and tag." Didn't tell us jackshit about not looking at the damn thing.Dr. : Could you describe the mission, please?Capt. : Yeah, sorry. We had two choppers, one with my team and one on backup with Zulu 9-B and Dr. . We spotted the target about two clicks north of our patrol path. I'm guessing he wasn't facing our direction, else he would have taken us out then and there.Dr. : Your report says SCP-096 didn't react to the cold? It was -o C.Capt. : Actually, it was -. And yes, it was butt naked and didn't so much as shiver. Anyway, we landed, approached the target, and Corporal got ready to bag it. That's when Dr. called. I turned to answer it, and that's what saved me. The target must have turned and my whole squad saw it.Dr. : That's when SCP-096 entered an agitated emotional state?Capt. : Yep. [Interviewed now pauses for a second before continuing] Sorry. Got the willies for a second.Dr. : That's all right.Capt. : Yeah. Well, I never saw its face. My squad did, and they paid for it up the ass.Dr. : Could you describe it a little more, please?Capt. : [Pauses] Yeah, yeah. It started screaming at us, and crying. Not animal roaring though, sounded exactly like a person. Really fucking creepy. [Pauses again] We started firing when it picked up Corporal and ripped off his leg. God, he was screaming for our help fuckin 'A anyway, we were blowing chunks out of the target, round after round. Didn't do jackshit. I almost lost it when it started [DATA EXPUNGED] him.Dr. : That's when you ordered the use of an [AT-4 HEDT launcher?Capt. : An anti-tank gun. Started carrying it ever since SCP- got loose. I've seen those tear through tanks like tissue paper. Did the same thing to the target.Dr. : There was significant damage to SCP-096?Capt. : It didn't even fucking flinch. It kept tearing apart my squad, but with half of its torso gone. [He draws a large half-circle across his torso]Dr. : But it was taking damage?Capt. : If it was, it wasn't showing it. It must have lost all its organs, all its blood, but it didn't acknowledge any of it. Its bone structure wasn't hurt at all, though. It kept tearing my squad apart.Dr. : So no actual structural damage. How many rounds would you say were fired at SCP-096?Capt. : At the least? A thousand. Our door gunner kept his GAU-19 on it for at least twenty seconds. Twenty fucking seconds. That's six hundred .50 caliber rounds pumped into the thing. Might as well been spitting at it.Dr. : This is when Zulu 9-B arrived?Capt. : Yeah, and my squad was gone. Zulu 9-B managed to get the bag over its head, and it just sat down. We got it into the chopper and got it here. I don't know how I never saw its face. Maybe God or Buddha or whoever thought I should live. The jackass.Dr. : We have obtained an artist's depiction of SCP-096's face. Would you like to view it?Capt. : [Pauses] You know, after hearing that thing's screams, and the screams of my men, I don't think I want to put a face to what I heard. No. Just no.Dr. : All right, I believe we are done here. Thank you, Captain.[Chairs are heard moving, and footsteps leave the room. Captain (Ret.) is confirmed to have left Interview Room 22.]Dr. : Let this be on record that I am formally requesting SCP-096 be terminated as soon as possible.Credit:
